

PDF

A coffee journey_From the farm to your cup - www.rappler.c...

檔案 檢視 工具 說明

登入

第 1 頁 (共 1 頁) | 下載 | 複製 | 符合寬 | +

Philippines Indonesia

Coupons Rappler Shop f t e s Login to Rappler

LATEST NEWS

TULA: "Tatlo sa Harap ng COVID-19" ...
ARTS & CULTUREVirus ship still searching for ...
LATIN AMERICATrump ditched hopes of quick virus ...
U.S. & CANADA

HOW DOES THIS STORY MAKE YOU FEEL?

43% Hope

0% Sad

14% Angry

5% Don't Care

23% Inspired

0% Afraid

19% Amused

0% Annoyed

THIS STORY MAKES PEOPLE HAPPY

FOOD

A coffee journey: From the farm to your cup

What did your coffee go through before it reached your cup? Rappler traces the steps.

Peter Imbong

Published 1:16 PM, August 02, 2013
Updated 4:43 PM, August 02, 2013

Facebook

Twitter

Reddit

Email

IT HAS A STORY. Before your coffee looked, smelled and tasted this good, it went through a process

MANILA, Philippines - Coffee is the second most consumed beverage in the Philippines, next to water.

In fact, according to research firm Kantar Worldpanel, among the top 10 fast moving consumer goods (FMCG) in the country, coffee ranks as the item with the biggest "brand footprint," closely followed by instant noodles and laundry detergent.

READ: 10 brands Filipinos buy the most

"Filipinos consume 21,600,000 cups of coffee a day," says JP Bayangos, Nescafe's consumer marketing manager. "That's 900,000 cups an hour, 15,000 cups per minute, and 250 cups a second." This is regardless of whether you take your morning cup of coffee as black, with a shot of milk, a dollop of whipped cream, a drizzle of caramel or a sprinkling of cinnamon.

Every cup of coffee you've had came from a lowly coffee bean. What did your coffee have to go through before it reached your chipped white cup?

TOURIST DESTINATION? Nope. This is where your coffee story begins. All Rappler photos by Peter Imbong

Rappler went all the way to Tagum in Davao del Sur, one of the country's top coffee-producing areas, to trace the steps.

